

KEEP YOUR NEW BABY LEAD SAFE

Have Your Baby Tested
for Lead Poisoning

Prevent LEAD poisoning.

Childhood lead poisoning is one of the most common, yet most preventable, pediatric health problems in our country. Ask your pediatrician or local health department about preventing lead poisoning. Have your baby tested for lead poisoning at 12 and 24 months of age. After that, test as recommended by your pediatrician, until age 6. For more information contact the State of Connecticut Department of Public Health, Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program (860) 509-7745 or your local health department.
